Flying Boats in Marion

The Sikorski "Sky Hook" accompanied Marion yachts where they had never sailed before in one of the best kept secret voyages of the decade. It was the best kept because it was kept by so many. In whispers, the time, the date was passed from lip to ear but no one breathed a word of it aloud. This "blackout" was a help to the boatyard since they hoped to avoid crowds which would have hampered the operation.

As Win Jenney's photos on the cover show, the sight was stranger than any seen here before. In sensational precision the helicopter shuttled boat after boat according to a pre-arranged schedule which placed undamaged hulls back in the harbor waters and gently lowered the damaged craft on the solid ground at Burr's boatyard. The harness, which Carleton Burr designed in advance, using models, worked extremely well. All the boats that were under the maximum weight that the copter could lift were brought off the marsh in half a day. The rest remain to be rescued by barge with lifting gear. A total of 23 boats were lifted by the helicopter.

This mopping up operation concludes the saga of "Gloria" with a dual coast-to-coast airlift: for the boats, from the east to west coast of Marion harbor; for the copter, the conclusion of a round trip back to Oregon.

Selectmen's Meeting

OCTOBER 15, 1985 - by VIRGINIA ARRAL

MORE SHELLFISH AREAS CLOSED: POLLUTION

Pollution has taken a strong hold on the shores of Mattapoisett with about 1/3 of the shellfish areas closed. Brian Nunes, Shellfish Constable, informed Selectmen last Tuesday that the latest area - Ned's Point, Strawberry Point and Pine Island - is "very dirty".

Following an inspection by the Department of Environmental Quality Engineering on October 7th, an official report from that department cited several serious violations and ordered the areas closed for 30 days, effective October 10th (until November 10th).

The report noted, "because of the discharge of untreated and unchlorinated wastes into the waters and by the intentional by-passing of the wastewater treatment facility at Old Rochester Regional High School, the school has been told to cease the discharge and that the wastes be pumped, hauled and properly disposed of at an approved wastewater treatment facility or some other acceptable solution be proposed for approval".

ORR School Superintendent Joan Walsh and the district's Administrative Assistant Andrew J. Santos have been notified of these violations and the provisions for correction.

The DEQE cited ORR District did not notify the state department that a by-pass was to occur by major modifications and reconstruction of the treatment facility. No plans were submitted to the DEQE for review and approval. The department also required that all on-going construction immediately halt and appropriate plans and reports be submitted.

Nunes informed Selectmen that he spoke with John Mendes of DEQE to review the water samples of the Pine Island Pond area and found them to be "very dirty". Nunes said, "this means a good chunk of the shellfish areas are closed. One-third because of pollution, and a part for propagation purposes".

Selectmen agreed to give the report to the town's Board of Health and to discuss the concerns with them as soon as possible. The board also agreed to request Mattapoisett's representatives on the ORR District School Committee to meet with them to review these concerns and what steps the District plans to take. Selectman James F. Huntoon wanted to know what the correction is going to cost and where the funds are coming from - the school district budget or the town's budget.

In other business, Selectmen:

EXPRESSED CONCERN on the probable passage of a federal law entitled the Fair Labor Standards Act. Congressman Gerry E. Studds wrote, acknowledging the board's concern and will discuss it when he makes his scheduled visit to an open meeting with the public at Town Hall (held Saturday, October 19). The vote is scheduled to be taken November 15th.

A joint meeting of the Selectmen and Finance Committee members was also scheduled for last Wednesday to discuss the impact the law would have on the town's budget. A section of the act would require towns to pay some employees for overtime rather than giving them compensation time off, among other provisions.

RECEIVED WORD from ORR School Superintendent Joan Walsh that the District School Committee has voted to accept a professional development grant - Mattapoisett's share will be $44,293.

It was noted this grant money can only be used for teachers' salaries; however, the salaries must also be negotiated first with the teachers' union.

ANNOUNCED that PACE will again this year be conducting the Fuel Assistance Program at the Town Hall. Applications will be taken at the first session from 9 a.m. to 12 noon on Thursday, October 24th.

Selectmen's New Secretary

by VIRGINIA ARRAL

"MILLIE" SYLVIA

Her nickname may be "lucky" at Bingo, but Imelda "Millie" Sylvia, the Board of Selectmen's new secretary, will need a good sense of humor in her new job.

This was very evident at last week's Selectmen's meeting as Millie took notes at her first full meeting. Ten minutes after the meeting was over, the three Selectmen teasingly asked Millie if she had the minutes all typed up for them. She laughed and responded with a "not yet".

A resident of 68 Church Street, Fairhaven, Millie has worked taking the census and working at the polls in that town. She also worked in the Planning Bureau of the New Bedford Police Department before coming to Mattapoisett. Millie says she always has been interested in working in Town Hall surroundings, and when she saw the advertisement seeking someone to replace Elaine Sylvia (no relation), who resigned, she quickly applied. She is a graduate of Amesbury High School, Amesbury, MA.

Millie's husband, Donald, has been employed at Sippican in Marion for 22 years. Their hours are very similar so her husband brings her and picks her up after work for now. She jokingly said there are enough cars in the yard now, what with their oldest son, Mark, age 22, newly discharged from the Coast Guard and now working at MacLean's in Fairhaven, and their middle son, Steve, age 20, a second year student at Bristol Community College, both with cars. Their youngest son, Scott, age 15, is a sophomore at New Bedford Vocational School specializing in welding.

Millie received four certificates for separate courses in Word Processing she completed at the adult classes at New Bedford Vocational School. She said she likes working with the public and finds the work very interesting and her fellow workers very friendly. "So far, I love it."

One of her hobbies is bowling for the past nine years at the Mattapoisett BowlMor Lanes. "I kinda feel like Mattapoisett is my second home", she said. "My nickname 'Lucky' was given to me by my friends when I go to play Bingo at St. Joseph's Church in Fairhaven."

Selectmen Chairman John DeCosta was joined by Selectmen James Huntoon and Frank Suzan in welcoming Millie to her new job and said they enjoyed seeing her smiling face. Executive Secretary Carol Adams said among the reasons she recommended Millie for the job was her outgoing personality, her sense

"LIFE AND DEATH OF A SALT MARSH"

"Life and Death of a Salt Marsh" with John Teal of Woods Hole Oceanographic Institute, will be the program of the Marion Natural History Society this Thursday, October 24th, at 7:30 p.m. This subject is very timely in view of the after-effects of "Gloria" and the many boats which were left high and dry on the salt marshes of Sippican Harbor.

Storyteller Visits Two Towns

OLD TALES, OLD TUNES AND A BIT OF MAGIC

Tim Jennings is a teller of old tales; traditional oral stories, drawn mostly from the European and Euro-American traditions. He varies his show with concertina music, sleight-of-hand, and "a little corny vaudeville stuff", but at the heart of his performances are his satisfyingly substantial folk tales, featuring tricksters, dimwits, talking animals, magicians, and an occasional Horrible Thing. Jennings' interpretations are vigorous, his language neither modern nor arcane, and his presentation dynamic, giving full respect both to ancient tale and modern audience.

Called "Vermont's leading talespinner" in his home state, Jennings has been a full-time storyteller for over five years. He is listed both as a touring artist and an artist-in-residence by the Vermont Council on the Arts, and works before a wide variety of audiences throughout the Northeast, at festivals, elementary and secondary schools, colleges, theaters, museums, TV and radio.

Tim Jennings is coming to Rochester Memorial School today, Wednesday, October 23rd, at 9:00 a.m. to entertain the fifth grade.

STORYTELLER COMING TO OLD HAMMONDTOWN SCHOOL

Tim Jennings, master storyteller from Vermont, will be weaving his magical tales and captivating his young audience at Old Hammondtown School. His appearance has been scheduled for Thursday, October 24th. He

Tri-County Symphonic Band

TO OPEN 1985-86 CONCERT SERIES SUNDAY

The Tri-County Symphonic Band (sponsored by the Tri-County Music Association, Inc.) begins its concert series on Sunday, October 27th, at 3:00 p.m. at the Zeiterion Theatre, and are proud to present, along with music by the Symphonic Band, the Berklee Saxophone Quartet, composed of Joseph Viola (soprano), David Chapman (alto), John LaPorta (tenor) and Thomas Ferrante (baritone). They will offer a varied program.

Joe Viola is probably the leading teacher of saxophone in the United States and has long been a distinguished member of the Berklee faculty, where it is justly claimed that not even the French nor the Belgians play the soprano saxophone as well as he.

It might be added that Joe is also a capable performer on other woodwinds, such as oboe and clarinet.

Dave Chapman, formerly "lead alto" with Claude Thornhill's fine ballroom band, took his diploma originally at the New England

Conservatory. Curiously enough, his main business interest for some years has been as an executive of the First National Bank of Boston. However, banking acumen doesn't seem to have conflicted with his fine talent on the saxophone.

John LaPorta, years ago a mainstay of the Woody Herman "Herd", has taught arranging and saxophone for many years at Berklee and has been a mainstay behind the ensemble groups there at the school. His expertise has been evidenced by various musical publications, as well as his strong clarinet and tenor work in the Pomeroy organization.

Tom Ferrante, the "cellist" (i.e. baritone saxophonist) of the quartet, took his degree in music education at the New England Conservatory and followed it with a Master's in Saxophone at the Boston Conservatory. Also an accomplished clarinetist and flutist, Tom has had great success as instrumental supervisor in the Waltham school system, where he produced "stage bands" which won prizes at the annual High School competitions at Berklee College.

The overall expertise of these four saxophonists is astonishing when one considers the way they can direct their talents into the traditional or contemporary molds.

Your attendance will be appreciated and you will be rewarded with an afternoon of fine music.

Here's how Chiropractic treats
Leg Pains
It is not normal to have leg pains, whatever your age or activity. And to get relief with pain-killing medication merely covers up the health problem while the damage continues.
Structural imbalance is the underlying cause of many types of painful disorders, particularly those involving your legs and joints.
The doctor of chiropractic is a physician who employs a method that gives particular attention to the structural and neurological aspects of the body. He seeks to enable your body's natural restorative powers to operate, so as to allow the body to eliminate health problems, as well as associated discomfort.

McCluskey stated that most of the offenders of child abuse are either members of the family or familiar faces to the victim. In conjunction with child abuse, Officer McCluskey said that a lot of times, when approached by a stranger, a child does not know how to react.

He explained that there are kits available which include films and tapes to help the child understand more fully the problems of child abuse and "missing children". The kits are available for all age groups from kindergarten through 12th grade.

Working together with the Ladies' Auxiliary a program for children is being prepared to be held within the next few months.

Book Comments

by PAUL MYERS

"LAW IN COLONIAL MASSACHUSETTS, (1630-1800), DANIEL R. COQUILLETTE, EDITOR

Among recent acquisitions of the Mattapoisett Library is this valuable reference book. It is "the first comprehensive scholarly guide to colonial Massachusetts law and legal records". It is issued as the sixty second volume of publications of the Colonial Society of Massachusetts, and contains a wealth of material, and references to material on the subject of Colonial law. The book will be found a great help to the student of the subject but also contains much of interest to the general reader. The first section of the book consists of eleven position papers written by the leading scholars in the field, with a general introduction by the editor. Quotations in the introduction like the following alert one's interest: "Massachusetts was a legalistic society from the beginning to end..." From the arrival of the visible saints...the lives of the people of Colonial Massachusetts were touched in countless ways by the "Countenance of Authoritie". Americans were the most litigious people in the world, as well as the most contemptuous, or at least distrustful, of the lawyers they employed. Who were these professionals?

Mattapoisett Land Trust

EXPLAINS PRESERVATION OPTIONS

Many people have asked about the various options available for preserving land as a result of the recent publicity for those like William Howland of Acushnet who have taken action to preserve open land. George Mock, III, President of the Mattapoisett Land Trust, says that one of the challenges facing those who live in developing areas like Mattapoisett is finding methods to accommodate growth without destroying our rural heritage and natural resource base. The private land conservancy and land trust movement provides one of the most effective ways to protect resource lands.

A landowner may make a charitable gift of his entire interest in a piece of property or he may decide to give up only a portion of his right. In the first case the full legal title passes to the organization to which the gift has been made and if it is a registered charitable institution like the Mattapoisett Land Trust, the donor gets a tax deduction for the full current value of the property.

In the case of a gift of a partial interest in land, the landowner retains legal ownership of the property but gives up some of the rights to its use. For example, the landowner may deed to a land trust a "conservation" restriction in which he agrees not to develop his property. The conservation restriction is recorded like a deed and insures that the future use of the property will comply with the terms of the agreement.

Massachusetts has a special program designed to preserve farmland called the "Agricultural Preservation Restriction Program". To be eligible for the program the land must have been farmed for a minimum of two years before application, must be at least 5 acres, and must have produced at least $100. per acre in gross annual sales. Since the first farm was accepted for this program in 1980, 142 farms totalling about 13,000 acres have been restricted.

Another Massachusetts program is the "Massachusetts Conservation Restriction Act" signed into law in 1969. Under this law, a person who has conveyed a conservation restriction to a qualified organization may request the local assessors to revalue his property to reflect the restrictions. Assuming the restrictions substantially reduce the development potential of the property, the landowner may see a significant drop in local property taxes.

Over the years, conservancy organizations have found that each potential acquisition requires careful consideration of a broad range of circumstances involving both the land and the landowner. The Mattapoisett Land Trust stands ready to help anyone who is interested in preserving the natural resources of this town and who is considering taking some action under the various programs available. Just write to Box 31, Mattapoisett.

"Beyond War"

"Beyond War" will be the subject of a talk by Albert and Sylvia Bigelow to be held at a dinner meeting of the Marion Lions' Club and the Tri-Town Lioness Club at the Frigate Restaurant at 7 p.m. Thursday, October 24th.

"Beyond War" is a national movement with offices in Palo Alto, California. It constitutes a new approach and way of thinking about the conflict, about the world we live in, about other people, and about ourselves. According to the Bigelows who have been active in promoting world peace for many years, the New Way of Thinking is as follows: "In the past our primary loyalty has been limited to our own family, or race, or ideology, or nation. recently started their 1985-86 school year. Last year each class voted for their representatives to the Warrant Committee. The group has assembled under the guidance of Ronald Normand, a teacher at ORR. The first order of business was to elect officers. People were nominated for the five positions and the group voted. Janet Plaud (Class of 1986) was elected President, John Viveiros ('86) is Vice President, Amy Fales ('86) is Treasurer; Erik Morris (Class of 1987) is Public Relations, Janet Adams (Class of 1988) was elected Secretary. These five people, along with Becky Belanger as the freshman class representative, form the Executive Council.

The Committee as a whole meets about once a month. The Executive Council meets more frequently to speed up and simplify work. The job of the Warrant Committee represents the student body as a whole. Two major jobs are running the "town meeting" and controlling the Student Fund. Each year at the town meetings the students vote on warrants proposed earlier by the students. If passed, the committee tries to get administration to make it official. The committee also controls the Student Fund. They decide which clubs or organizations in the school need money and how much they need. The members of the Warrant Committee are: Janet Plaud, John Duryea, Cary Tripp, Kim Hilley, John Viveiros, Amy Fales, Scott

Review: Your Theatre

"GALLOWS HUMOR" AT YOUR THEATRE
by DAVID B. BOYCE

Jack Richardson, author of Your Theatre's current production of "Gallows Humor", garnered his mere glimmer of fame on and off-Broadway in the 1960's with such plays as "Xmas in Las Vegas" and "The Prodigal". A professional gambler in real life, Mr. Richardson invests each of his works with certain elements of chance, of risk-taking and the toll such challenges take on those who accept the challenge.

"Gallows Humor" is, perhaps, too aptly titled. The two acts are preceded by a prologue, delivered in a cheerfully gay manner by none other than Death, himself (Ed Maguire). His sardonic observations outline Richardson's thesis - that the abandonment of daily routines for the allure of more hedonistic pleasures should become a national priority. That philosophy typifies the 1960's and also roots "Gallows Humor" as a period piece, but not without some wicked and whacky wit.

"Part One" is set in the jail cell of a milquetoast, Walter (Robert Suares), just two hours before his execution. At curtain's rise, we observe him sitting passively on his neatly made cot, stitching his shirt, so that he will make a good impression in his death throes. He's a real neat-freak. Enter the Warden (Ron Saulnier) with a particularly tawdry streetwalker, Lucy (Cheryl Shepard).

It seems a benevolent penal system now provides the death row inmates with, not only their favorite meal, but also with a prostitute just hours before their end. But Lucy has a real challenge in her attempted seduction of Walter. He's become so accustomed to life alone in his cell that the very thought of a reckless sexual debauch turns him off.

Suares is appropriately meek; a mouse held captive in the penal trap, shrinking at the indulgence at the last minute. His impassioned descriptions of his pre-prison life are a pathetic reminder of how far he has slipped into the routines of his imprisonment. Here he is, a lawyer convicted of murdering his wife with a golf club, now reduced to imploring Lucy not to drop any ashes on his carefully swept floor.

Ms. Shepard's Lucy is a streetwise gal, well interpreted. She's gritty, with the gruff attitude of Betty Thomas from TV's "Hill Street Blues". She even bears a resemblance to Ms. Thomas. She has a fine, comic sense for timing, a consistently slangy quality that emerged fully after a somewhat self-conscious start.

Ron Saulnier, as the always analytic Warden, is perfectly cast. He's somewhat slimy, offering a self-serving rationale for any circumstance that might threaten his status, but a believable character, despite the absurdist nature of the play.

"Part Two" finds us in the kitchen of Phillip (Peter West) the Hangman, and his wife Martha (again, Ms. Shepard). Visiting this morning is the Warden (Saulnier). Phillip is urging the Warden to allow him to wear an executioner's hood. He longs for a break from his routine. Hangings have become too commonplace for Phillip. He wants more adventure, vitality and romance in the job he now views as mundane, much like the grind faced by a bored corporate junior executive. When he departs upstairs to retrieve the hood and show his boss how it will enhance his looks and esteem, the Warden and Martha slip into a romantic encounter.

It is here that the play springs to life. Director Edward Maguire has so well conceived this comic interlude, enhanced by the best lines Richardson offers, giving full rein to the comic abilities of Ms. Shepard and Mr. Saulnier. Ms. Shepard is brilliant here, broadly comical with many visual asides to the audience. She is an absolute mad-cap, exhibiting a sure talent to elicit hysterical laughter. Mr. Saulnier is equally good, playing straight-man to Ms. Shepard's generous clowning. Unfortunately, Mr. Richardson then becomes more rhetorically philosophic, pounding his theories home with only occasional glimpses of humor.

Peter West is a beleaguered Hangman and very well-played. He has a tendency to repeat certain gestures, which can water down the visual appeal, but he sparks to life when,

His dependency on his 20-year marriage, however, forbids his escape. West handles the transition from excitement to deflating realization with exacting aplomb.

Your Theatre's cast displays its adept abilities to handle Richardson's rather unfulfilling writing. Sets by Ed Maguire are serviceable for "Part One" and imaginative for "Part Two". Other technical aspects of the production are, as always, professional.

Exhibiting such strong talent recently for more challenging material ("No Exit" as an example) it is with hope Your Theatre will address more difficult work. Their audiences would not object.

Additional performances will be staged tonight (Wednesday, the 23rd) through Saturday, with an 8 p.m. curtain. For reservations call 993-0772.

Coast Through Education. This conference is the annual Conference of the Northeast Marine Education Council which has met for the past several years on Cape Cod and will be meeting in North and South Dartmouth for the first time this year. The Conference will be held from Friday evening October 25 through Sunday afternoon, October 27. Registration for the Conference is through the Lloyd Center and additional information is available by calling 990-0505.

The Northeast Marine Education Council (NEMEC) is a regional unity of the National Marine Educators' Association. NEMEC serves as a vehicle to bring together marine educators from all over New England, New Jersey, New York and eastern Canada. Member chapters include the Southeastern New England Marine Educators (based at the Lloyd Center), Massachusetts Marine Educators, Gulf of Maine Marine Educators, New York State Marine Educators, and New Jersey Marine Educators.

Members of the NEMEC member organization include teachers, researchers, staff of aquaria and environmental centers, museum staff and others interested in the marine world. This Conference allows for a sharing of teaching methods, new information of import to teachers and an opportunity for individuals and groups to develop and expand the network of marine educators. A diverse offering of workshops, lectures and field trips will make this a special weekend.

Opening the program will be Dr. Charles (Stormy) Mayo III, Director of the Cetacean Research Program of the Center for Coastal Studies in Provincetown. Dr. Mayo and his staff have investigated many aspects of the lives of humpbacked, fin and right whales in Cape Cod Bay. He has worked closely with the various agencies and whale watch fleets which have concentrated in Cape Cod waters due to the large number of cetaceans found in that area.

Featured speaker for the Conference is Dick Methia, National Finalist, Teachers in

Monetary Exhibit

To celebrate the completion of renovations at Plymouth Savings Bank's Main Street office in Plymouth, the Bank will sponsor an historical exhibit in cooperation with the Pilgrim Society.

Tercentenary medals, struck in 1920 to celebrate the 300th anniversary of the Pilgrim's landing, and found recently in a Plymouth Savings Bank vault, inspired the exhibit which will feature samples of Indian wampum, Pine Tree shillings, and tercentenary coins. Additional items are: manufactory notes (private issue notes from 1740), payroll scrip (issued by Plymouth Cordage during the March, 1933 bank holiday), and fractional currency (dating from 1862 in denominations of less than $1.). All are from the Pilgrim Society collection. Also on display will be the original Plymouth Savings Bank ledger book dating from 1828 and photos of downtown Plymouth from 1880 to 1920.

The tercentenary medals will be sold during the display. All proceeds will benefit the Pilgrim Society. The management of Plymouth Savings Bank cordially invites the public to visit the exhibit upon completion of renovations which is expected later this autumn.

The Clown Conspiracy

Performances by a team of two clowns, called "The Clown Conspiracy", will come to Southeastern Massachusetts University on November 6th.

Joe Killian and Michael Zerphy, who have clowned together since 1978 and have toured Europe with their act, will appear at 7:30 p.m. in the main SMU auditorium. Ticket prices are $5. for the public, $3. for senior citizens and staff, and $2. for students. For tickets call the Campus Center ticket office at 999-8136.

The couple of clowns will also give three free shows in the Campus Center cafeteria at 11 a.m., noon, and 1 p.m.

"It is when things go consciously wrong that things go right for 'The Clown Conspiracy'", commented The New York Times.

"The uncommon quality of The Clown Conspiracy lies in their sophisticated approach to clowning", wrote the Indianapolis News.

The clowns were featured artists-in-residence throughout upstate New York under funding by the New York State Division of Youth. In 1980 they participated in the Grand Rapids, Michigan Artist-in-Education Program, touring their show to sixty schools.

Performances of "The Clown Conspiracy" at SMU are sponsored by the Cultural Affairs Committee.

Continuing the festivities at 3:00 p.m., Johnny Appleseed - Gentle Hero, a 40-minute performance by Marc Levitt, will be held in the Theater of the Round Barn. Levitt studied mime, comedy and playwriting in California before moving to Rhode Island seven years ago. As a former nursery school teacher, he presents Johnny Appleseed as a real person accessible to the children in his audience.

Johnny Appleseed, born John Chapman in 1774 in Massachusetts, roamed the frontier establishing apple tree nurseries. "Appleseed was a sower of seeds and ideas", said Levitt.

Levitt retains the magic of folklore and tales that surround this American hero by performing in costume for children (age 7 and beyond) and their parents and friends.

Everyone is invited to join in this fun-filled day, as well as enjoy one more visit to the Museum before it closes on Sunday, October 27, for the season.

Membership, as well as admission tickets to the Museum for the day, will be honored for these events and will include admission to all the Museum buildings, exhibitions and grounds. Tickets are $5. for adults, children under 12, $2.; five and under are free. The Museum encourages families to enjoy a picnic lunch in the picnic area outside the Main Gate. Picnicking is not allowed on the Museum grounds.

Heritage Plantation is 3 miles from the Cape Cod Sagamore Bridge, exit on Route 6A, then go right on Route 130 to Pine Street and the Museum.
